The follow error : MySQL server has gone away is returned by MySQL because server timed out and closed your connection.

other reasons for the MySQL server has gone away error are:

1. You DBA has killed the running thread with a KILL statement.
2. You tried to run a query after closing the connection to the server.
3. A client application running on a different host does not have the necessary privileges to connect to the MySQL server from that host.
4. You got a timeout from the TCP/IP connection on the client side.

For more details on this error, please refer to MySQL Manual:
